From the National Commission for Democratic Change (ENCDC)

Recalling its founding on the basis of a resolution adopted by the National Conference for Democratic Change, held from 31 July to 9 August 2010 in Addis Ababa, the Eritrean National Commission for Democratic Change, expresses its gratitude for the trust put upon itself, and affirms its resolve to carry through the resolutions and recommendations of the National Conference for Democratic Change.

A central task of the Eritrean National Commission for Democratic Change is to ensure a successful conclusion to the prospective National Congress by bringing the forces of democratic change to one forum and facilitating a civilized conversation among Eritreans. The success of the national congress will no doubt bring closer the demise of the dictatorial PFDJ regime and the day when our people’s vision for a pluralistic, democratic Eritrea becomes a reality.

To make the above goals feasible, ENCDC believes that it is of utmost importance to ensure a fair and equitable representation of all of our society’s sections and political forces in the upcoming Congress. The Commission, therefore, declares its earnest desire and readiness to work with all forces of democratic change who aspire to see a successful national congress.

ENCDC recognizes that shared trust, transparency and honest exchange of ideas are essential for the effective conduct of its work. It, hereby, therefore, respectfully calls upon all Eritreans who aspire to see a democratic Eritrea – political forces, civic

ENCDC's Ongoing Worldwide Meetings

Eritrean National Commission for Democratic Change (ENCDC) is planning to hold public meetings in various cities worldwide in the coming weeks.

NCDC North America will convene public meetings in Los Angeles, Oakland, and Washington DC on Oct. 9, Oct. 16 and Oct 23, 2010 respectively. ENCDC Europe is also planning to hold meetings in Stuttgart, Karlsruhe, Frankfurt and Kassel in Germany on Oct. 9, Oct 30, Nov. 6 and Nov. 13, respectively. The commissioners will also conduct public meeting in Stockholm, Sweden on Oct. 16, 2010. This month it is also in works to hold commission public meetings in UK in Birmingham & Leeds on Oct 23 and Oct. 24, 2010 respectively. It is reported that the commission public meetings will continue in different cities of Holland, Australia and Africa as well. These meetings are continuation to the meetings that have been going on in the past month in different cities around the globe. In the upcoming meetings, the commissioners are expected to discuss with public the ENCDC mission and to set up a local congress committee that will work in cooperation with ENCDC to facilitate in mobilizing and organizing the public for the upcoming congress.

In the past month there were many public meetings at different cities of Sweden, Germany, UK, Holland, Norway, Swiss, Canada, USA, Australia, Ethiopia, Sudan and other places. These commission public meetings were being held in conjunction with public meetings that were aiming at informing the public about Eritrean National Conference for Democratic Change that was held in Addis Ababa between July 31 and August 10, 2010. In these meetings, the public got the chance to gain the facts, listen to personal testimonies and answers to their questions about the National Conference from their respective representatives who attended the National Conference.

In addition, during these past meetings the commissioners were introduced and reintroduced to the public as they took every opportunity to explain ENCDC's formation, main objectives, its activities and future plans. The public and different organizations have been very much involved in preparing these public meetings, discussing the shortcomings and achievements of the Waa'la and paving the way for the ENCDC to establish its footings in all cities and regions. It has been reported from most of the meetings, the public were delighted to see such organized and informative meetings and left with satisfaction and high hope to see ENCDC objectives materialize soon.

It is to be recalled that the commission is organizing itself in five regions: Europe, North America, Australia, Middle East and Africa. ENCDC chairman Amha Domenico said that “the spirit that many Eritreans have shown to work together with the commission at local levels is adding vigor to ENCDC and the commissioners.” ENCDC has clear objectives and mandate; we will make sure ENCDC objectives are met by working with all democratic forces who are willing to work together with ENCDC, the chairman added. ENCDC’s main objective is “to bring all forces democratic change together to the expected congress which may enable us to bring change in Eritrea as expeditiously as possible,” he further elaborated.

Commissioner Aisha Mussa Gaas who was a speaker at the public meeting that was held on Sept. 11, 2010 in Stockholm said that “I am continuing to witness the maturity, eagerness and the commitment that I have seen at the National Conference in Addis are being reflected in the public meetings in Stockholm and elsewhere and this makes me very optimistic.” She also said, “I am pleased by the turnout, the interest and the support the public has shown for ENCDC and the energy and willingness to work with the commission”

Commissioner Teclesenbet Teclai who participated at the public meeting that was held on Sept. 26, 2010 in Koln, Germany stressed that the public should pay no attention to unproductive partisan bickering, and that everyone should rise up above and beyond partisan interest and work to make the upcoming congress a success.

“The fact that the public is taking ownership of the National Conference and defending any disinformation campaign by presenting the facts of the Waa’la is new phenomenon and encouraging,” said commissioner Daniel Weldetnsae who was organizing the meeting in London, UK that was held on Sept. 18, 2010.

Commissioner Idris Nuru who is a member of the Mobilization committee of ENCDC underlined that, “the commission has an open door policy and welcomes everyone who aspires for democratic change in Eritrea to work with the commission in organizing, mobilizing and to be part of the solution.”

Furthermore, the chairman of ENCDC North America Mr. Hailemariam Tesfamichael who chaired a public meeting in San Diego that was held on Sept. 4, 2010 expressed his wishes by saying that, “This year I hope it will be a year of cooperation not competition among organizations civic or political; after we hand over power to the people, we can proudly compete and claim one is better or bigger than the other”

Mr. Kibrom Debru who is the general auditor of the ENCDC and who is also in charge of North America Media for ENCDC explained that public mobilization in Toronto is already underway and Eritreans in Toronto have already met on Sept. 18, 2010 with the commission and formed a local committee of 25 members that works closely with ENCDC. In addition, Eritreans in Toronto have been selling report of the National Conference on DVD and Newsletter which also helped to raise funds to cover some of the expenses. “It seems that the month of October will be very busy for the commission; and that these public meetings are going to be intensified and will continue worldwide in all five regions.” commissioner Kibrom added.
