

Scratch My Back I will Scratch Yours!

These are stage men, performers but these are no ordinary performers but quite the opposite, they are more concerned to please not the audience but themselves.

President Trump who gave the green light on how PM Abiy could violate and undermined a constitution and extend his stay on power without mandate wanted to do the same using the same excuses he advised his helot vassal to put to the Ethiopian people.

When he contemplated extension of election he put it casually on Tweeter to taste the water but found out it that the water was raging at a boiling point, too hot to swallow down his guttural to his displeasure. Then he abandoned the thought that he could play football with the American Constitution.

He is a man who advocates kids need to go to school come September because he argued young people are immune to the diseases but the fool failed to realize that the kids have homes to go to live with parents. The young do not live on tree tops but with families which includes old and adult family members. If, God forbid, the parents die how would the kids maintain themselves and keep going to school the president is urging and coercing them to do next month?

The duplicity of the man is incredulous to believe. Whilst he insists that students should go to school with the same breath he argues that it is dangerous to organize and conduct election four months from now and thus two month down the line from September when schools have to be opened.

Forget the constitution even logically it does not make sense. Millions of student across the country are told to go to school on everyday bases but the same numbers of people voting for a day or two are seen a cause of concern moving in and out election polling posts regarded as posing pathological threat!

The PM Abiy's approach of war or no war, peace or no peace; Covid or Rabid chatoyant displays of self image on the screens has the same message over and over again. After ፍንቅል has been tried to rattle the Tigrians thought if election and it did not payback the investment deployed. As ደግሞ proved utter disappointment lysayas had thought it would do for him to dislodge the TPLF.

The colonial who was at the heart of Ethiopia intelligence services to render call of duty but it appears he had been planted by foreign powers to spy and help destroyed the Ethiopian army and constitution. Assigned job fait accompli he is now back conducting a psychological war of mind to drive a wedge between the people of Tigray and its political organizations.

The message is loud and clear: the PM wants to be seen more catholic than the pope. He appears more sympathetic and concerned and is on the crucifixion cross ready to die championing the cause of Tigrians than some of the sons of Tigray who challenged him for not taking decisive actions against the rabble-rouser TPLF operating from the region. Taking action against TPLF is tantamount as taking action against the people of Tigray. One can effectively kill the fish that is TPLF without the PM drying the land of water. That is the what is stipulated by the proponents to what he needs to do to clean Tigray.

But the PM declined to such an action against TPLF/Tigray. The PM came out more Tigrain than the Tigrains themselves. I am glad he was more Tigrian than the Tigrains themselves, if it was true?

No one need to have more Tigrian, Oromo, Afar, British or German blood to be one. Anyone who stood for, die for irrespective of his blood is a Tigrain, an Oromo, a Denkellian/Afar, a British or a German.

But I fear the PM is not a Tigrian, I can say categorically he is an Amhara though I am not sure he has Amhara blood if any?

Thus, his mission is clear; whether the PM is in a silk, wool, leather or testudinal dressings he is out and about to divide and weaken the resolute of Tigrains whatever it costs and/or however low his person and pocket it get.

When many people are dead or murdered on the PM's watch and the rest of people continue to lead their lives business as usual with upper stiffed nose as if something horrible is not happening in the country, then one feels the country has lost its beating and is heading to a cliff beyond return.

Grapevine sources has it that a communication military unit in the year 2000 AD during the Ethio-Eritrea war where the PM was part of unit was hit and destroyed by air to air missile once he had excused himself from duty to go somewhere away from the unit and for a few minutes later all members of the unit perished. That way it is told he saved his life. If this is true, it is not only a murder crime for the loss of lives but a treason against the country as the PM was a stool pigeon assisting for enemy which was actively engaged in destroying the country and replace it with a dictator the country had fought to replace/remove except this time with a ruthless and far worse than the devil whose interest was piqued only resource exploitation.

The Amhara elites may not have cared as long as Isayas removed the Tigrains from the shared power of EPRDF, they were part of, as much as they did not care to sell Abay River for the Egyptians as long as Egypt lent hands in the downfall of the EPRDF government where Tigrains were perceived to having dominant role to play. Anything and everything, real or make-believe, that help pointing out at the Tigrains dirt was welcomed and tolerated. A case in point the first PM of EPRDF, Tamerat Layene, Aba Dula and other high ranking Amharas elites were and still are actively engaged in emptying the government coffers but it was and is still acceptable as long as they were not Tigrains. They have to arrest Bereket Simon and Taddess on trumpeted up charges and would sleep in peace with the scienler committed, whilst they there are many equally if not more corrupt than the two imprisoned.

At a Meskel Square celebration of his inauguration a group of people they called terrorists explode a bomb but miles away from where the PM was seated. One innocent person was killed immediately. This was followed by another death the next day.

Whilst these were the hard facts, the PM told a different farfetched story difficult to believe it was coming out from the head of the state. One kept wondering had Ethiopia lost its head or far worse, has Ethiopia a head physically and metaphorically to pull things together and remain collected.

As the head the country with unfettered access to security information, the PM was in the position to know the exact and nature of the explosion. But the PM preferred to release incorrect information about the number of people killed immediately. He said four people were killed when one was only killed there and then. He also pointed at the wrong people to having cause the explosion. Even the targeted people were the ones who caused the damage for the sake of stability and order the PM ought not have uttered and finger pointed at a group of people, unless he wished maximum damage of vulnerable section of his subject.

Equally he ought to have known the exact number killed as well as the identities of the perpetrators, as some of them were immediately apprehended. But how convenient it was; he chose to blame the Tigrians! Some of them were meted out their punishment by vigilantes on the spot till they lost consciousness and some suffered paralysis.

Besides, if he was the target by Tigrians who were determined to kill him, why would not the culprits explode the bomb near where or close to where he was located/seated rather than far away no close to him to cause a scratch let alone a fatal damage?

This drama of killings and wrongly fingerprinting continued one after another. Even in the same place another nemesis of his, the project manager he solemnly swear in front of Al Sisi not to complete to expectations, Semeghew Bekele was dealt with fatal below to his temple head in cold blooded. What is more painful is that this act of treason did not rock the Amharas elites that an innocent and patriotic Ethiopian was cold bloodily killed as long as they see all this good riddance if the Tigrian from state structures that Ethiopia was. A lot more then followed. One too many killings! Coincidence?? But still tolerable as far as it got rid Tigrians from the military, professional posts anything and everything the Amhara had it from themselves and themselves alone in a country with 80 ethnic people squashed like sardines in a can dead and mutilated, Ethiopia that was and still is.

The other person involved in such a scheme of destruction has been doing the same thing for well over 50 years it has now become part of his personality traits that he cannot live without doing the same thing he has been used to as a matter of orgy, come peace or hell!

He fought for 30 years claiming the cause for independence; now he is fighting back to reverse what he fought for in the first place - to be part of Ethiopia except he wanted to be on the driving seat to control events - a mad person in cage carrying it on his own head but unable to see what others can.

No sooner had he marched in to Asmera as a liberator he demolished the statue and ex residence, kept as a museum, of Ras Alula Aba Nega, the Tigran Lion, emblems of pride and confidences. He did this as a revenge to the execution of his great great grandfather Ras Hagos who kept looking down upon Ras Alula as a son of a downtrodden peasant who deserves no respect of nobility such was his. Besides Ras Hagos was in the pay role of the Italian government. He paid the price for his arrogance and treason insulting the Lion of the North. But evils will always perish but not until they also caused damage. Ras Hagos turned to accomplish what the Turkeys, Egyptians, Italians and Durbush/Sudanese we're unable to do. He caused the death of the great field general Alula from a bullet wound he suffered to his leg; as a bullet fragment lodged to the bone was equally the cause of the eventual death at age 54 of አባ ረንቅሎ Gebrehet Meshesha of Adua who terrorized and deracinated a contingent of Italians stationed near Abay River in Gojjam.

These tergiversants may cause damages but they will not win in the end. For justice to prevail conspiracy will nose dive, but vigilance needs to thrive. No amount of talking by the wolves in sheep's clothing ought not distract our resolute.

Election in Tigray is not a simple exercise. Once we secure the election we have all directions of options at our disposal to choose from, sky is the limit.
