ERITREAN LIBERATION FRONT

Appeal to the international and regional community and neighboring States

The Eritrean Liberation Front has stood up during the past period when the Coronavirus hit the globe, causing unprecedented human and economic losses in the world, especially in countries with advanced capabilities in various fields of health and economy. It has continued to be unable to defeat the Coronavirus, which has claimed enormous human lives in two consecutive months, and the threat of this pandemic continues to exist and threatens the lives of many. We have also followed the vigorous efforts of our young Eritrean youth in special camps in East of refugees Sudan and we know that what they are suffering to cover all the areas and areas of the refugees is beyond their capabilities and the support they received is not enough to cover those exposed to this pandemic.

Today, we are facing serious life risks in the camps of our refugees and our people deployed in neighboring countries: We know that our brothers in these countries are doing their best, but the magnitude of the tragedy, if the virus becomes severe, is enormous. We therefore call upon all the national and Eritrean youth living abroad who can convey our voice and the voice of our people to the relevant international organizations to do their utmost to reverse this suffering and to address it as a humanitarian needs. While we thank our young people, who have taken initiatives in this regard, we call on them to reflect the magnitude of the suffering through all the means available to international and Eritrean organizations, and we call on our brothers who are active in these organizations to pay wide attention to the suffering of our people threatened by this pandemic inside and outside Eritrea.

We ask God to help our people inside and our refugees in refugee camps to get over this dangerous crisis.

Good luck
Executive Committee of the Eritrean Liberation Front
